ABSTRACT

Over 200 microcomputer software packages applicable to vocational education are listed. Most of the programs are available for the Apple, TRS-80, and Commodore microcomputers. The packages have been reviewed, but have not been formally evaluated. Titles of the programs with names and addresses of the distributors are provided. Telephone numbers are also given for a majority of the distributors. Titles are organized in the following categories: agriculture (herd performance and financial management), business education (general), word processing, data processing and database management, beginning accounting, tax preparation, typing, recordkeeping, bookkeeping, management decisions, office procedures, graphics, health education (medical education), nutrition, resource management (financial), family management (recordkeeping;), industrial education, distributive education, and inventory control. Seven programs covering miscellaneous areas in vocational education and eight career education programs are also listed. (JW)

The software packages listed in this publication have been reviewed but not formally evaluated. All programs listed are quality products and worth examining, although you might find that some are inappropriate for particular student populations or specific instructional methodologies. Most programs are available for the Apple, TRS-80 and Commodore. Contact the distributor for more information on the products listed.

The listings are organized by vocational area. Several curricular areas are not listed because quality software has not yet been located in those areas. If you have previewed software that could be added to the list, please contact the editors. This list will be updated periodically.
